Universal Studios Japan Open Seven Days a Week Starting June 26th

In response to Osaka Prefecture's latest announcement to lift the state of emergency, Universal Studios Japan will be open on weekends starting on June 26th in addition to its current weekday operation.

Universal Studios Japan will continue to implement safety and capacity control measures and will operate at a reduced capacity while Osaka Prefecture remains under a state of semi-emergency.

In support of Universal Studios Japan's commitment to the prevention of the spread of COVID-19, all team members other than essential operational team members will continue to work from home.

Please visit our official website for further information.

※For safety measures and ticket information, please visit our official website (<https://www.usj.co.jp/web/en/us>) prior to your visit.

※Please follow the guidelines issued by the local authorities of your residing areas and carefully consider your visit.

※Wearing face masks is required at all times inside the park. Please bring your own face masks when visiting the park.

Safety Measures at Universal Studios Japan

Since April 2020, Universal Studios Japan has participated in organizing and updating the "Novel Coronavirus Spread Prevention Guidelines for Theme Parks and Amusement Parks" together with various corporations and related organizations.

The health and safety of our guests and team members continue to be our top priority. Universal Studios Japan has thorough sanitization enhancement measures and capacity controls in accordance with said guidelines and guidance from the government and local authorities. Universal Studios Japan will continue to work towards supporting the quick recovery of the economic activities and the tourism and entertainment industry.
